Bio: Dr. Susan Pell is an Assistant Professor of Communications at Richmond, The American International University in London, UK. Her work focuses on public discourse, social movements, urban politics, and community archives. She is currently researching gentrification archives and the formation of urban publics in Vancouver (Canada) and London (UK), investigating the relationship between knowledge production and possibilities for democratic participation. She has published in international journals, and her research has been presented at conferences in the UK and abroad.

https://richmond-uk.academia.edu/SusanPell
https://susanpell.wordpress.com/